

Good afternoon Parents/Carers,

Here I am again with your weekly update so you know what that means....it's Friday!

Groundbreakers were in school to deliver RE workshops to years 2 and 6 today and I'm told the children behaved impeccably and the people delivering the workshop commented on what a pleasure it was visiting our school!

Please can I remind you to take a look at the careers letter that Mrs Drysdale sent out this week. The more volunteers the better please!!

Please read the following message from Mrs Courtney-Smith. Please take a look at our new Bookflix Reading Trolley that will be making an appearance every Friday after school. It is a free opportunity to borrow a book to share with your child at home to 'read for pleasure'. The books have kindly been donated by pupils (past and present) and are in very good condition. Once you have read the book, please make sure you bring it back to school and give other children the opportunity to enjoy the book too! If you have any books at home that you no longer read or have outgrown, please drop them into our donations box and they will make an appearance on the trolley too!

Year 3 have yet another non-uniform day next Friday for 100% attendance again. There must be something in the water in that class and whatever it is, I want some!!

Next week is a very exciting week for some pupils and staff. On Wednesday 01-02-024, two important events are happening. Young Voices and Robinwood!! I'm sure both will go great. Break a leg to our Young Voices performers, I look forward to hearing all about. I know Robinwood will be fantastic because it always is and I for one can't wait. For all those lucky/unlucky children in my group, please tell them to look after me because in my family I'm known as Mrs Bump. Also be prepared for Facebook to be rammed with pictures of our exploits!

This time next week, you will hopefully get the Friday update from Mrs Fox or will she tell you that I'll do it the following Monday??? Watch this space.....
